MYRATH (english meaning "LEGACY") is a Metal band from Tunisia, a small county well known for its resort areas on the Mediterranean coast but certainly not for its metal bands, yet in just a few years what started out as a teenage cover band (formed in early 2001 by guitarist and main song writer Malek Ben Arbia, just 13 years old at the time), Has grown into one of the worlds major contenders in PowerProg Metal and gained much respect by the international prog-power international community with the release of their label debut album "Hope" Ben having graduated from the prestigious French International guitar music academy "M.A.I. at such an early age, has aligned himself with a formidable force of young talent.

It all really started happening In March 24th 2006 when the band opened for ROBERT PLANT and ADAGIO in Carthage Amphitheater (Tunisia) in front of nearly 7000 Rock/metal fans. Adagio keyboards player Kevin Codfert who watched Myrath performance (and later listened to Myrath first self produced album "double face" released in March 2005 in Tunisia only) detected the great potential of the band as well as promising composing skills.

Myrath recorded in December 2006 their debut album "Hope" in a low cost studio in Tunis-Tunisia, with the valuable assistance and guidance of Kevin Codfert (Adagio) as engineer and producer. This album was a turning point in Myrath carrier as the band was signed by the French label Brennus -Music who released "Hope" worldwide in September 2007.
